A developing country (or a low and middle income country (LMIC), less developed country, less economically developed country (LEDC), or underdeveloped country) is a country with a less developed industrial base and a low Human Development Index (HDI) relative to other countries. However, this definition is not universally agreed upon. There is also no clear agreement on which countries fit ...

Disagreement between theorists There a few varying definitions of global citizenship, yet they all seem to use interchangeable verbiage. Reysen & Katzarska-Miller (2013) explains that “The confusion regarding global citizenship is exacerbated as theorists draw from diverse disciplines and perspectives (e.g., political, theological, developmental, educational) to define the construct” (p.
